PROVIDENCE BAPTIST CHURCH OPENS NEW FELLOWSHIP HALL

Dear Tonya Reed,

Continuing its goal of reaching out to the Lee County community, Providence Baptist Church recently finished phase one of construction of its new facilities with the completion of a new fellowship hall. The three-phase construction will also include a sanctuary and children's building in the future. Providence will open the doors of the building to the community Sunday May 3 at 10:30 a.m. The event will feature musical entertainment and free food. The new building is located at 2900 Lee Road 166 across from the church's old sanctuary and fellowship hall in the Beauregard community. It will serve many functions within the community. The church will use it as a temporary sanctuary for its growing congregation. The new fellowship hall will also serve as a community center for church missions and organizations as well as an emergency relief shelter in times of crisis.

I believe this will be a great opportunity for the Opelika Auburn News to cover. Providence has long been involved in the Lee County community. It would be a great idea for your paper to cover this historic event.

Sincerely,
Jacob Wilder
